BEDFORD, WILLIAM RUSSELL, FIFTH EARL AND FIRST DUKE OF. On canvas, in the Robes of the Garter, standing in a room, his favourite spaniel seated by his side. A fine portrait of the "worthy old Duke," by Sir Godfrey Kneller, carved frame, 30 gs.

This Earl, upon the breaking out of the civil war, was made General of the Parliament's Horse, and was engaged at the Battle of Edge Hill, on the 23rd of October, 1642; but afterwards disliking the service, he went to the King at Oxford, and fought at the Battle of Worcester. Upon the accession of the Prince of Orange to the Throne, he was appointed one of the Privy Council. On the 11th of May, 1694, he was created Marquess of Tavistock and Duke of Bedford, and the reasons for bestowing the dignity upon him are thus given :—

“ That it was not the least, that he was father to the great Russell, the ornament of his age, whose great merits it was not enough to transmit by history to posterity ; but they were willing to record them in their Royal Patent to remain in the Family as a monument consecrated to his consummate virtues, whose name could never be forgot so long as men preserved any esteem for sanctity of manners, greatness of mind, and a love to their country, constant even to death. Therefore, to solace his excellent father for so great a loss, to celebrate the memory of so noble a son, and to excite his worthy grandson, the heir of such mighty hopes, more cheerfully to emulate and follow the example of his illustrious father, they entailed this high dignity upon the Earl and his posterity.”

So great was the Doctor's fondness of theatrical exhibitions, that no visitors were ever long in his house before they were solicited to accept a part in some interlude or other. ANONYMOUS PORTRAITS.

H. RODD will feel obliged to any Gentleman who will give him information respecting the following Portraits:—

PORTRAITS OF A LADY AND GENTLEMAN. In one Picture; the Lady standing, her cheek upon her left hand, and leaning on the back of a chair. She holds a roll of music in her right hand, and is evidently listening with profound attention to the Gentleman; who is seated at a table, and turning partly round, is in the act of presenting a small Bisquit figure of the Archer Boy, who seems, by his forefinger being closely pressed to his lips, and his sly looks, to indicate that he could a tale unfold. On the table is a Bronze and two books, "Petyt's Power of Parliaments" and "Seldeni Opera," also a Letter, upon which is inscribed "Shaftesbury." A rich crimson curtain behind the Lady, and the Painter's name, "F. Cotes, R. A. 1769," on the background.

The above Picture is on canvas, oblong, 5 ft. by 4½ ft. It is a most pleasing picture, and presumed to represent some Noble Personages who were lovers of the Fine Arts. See THE OUTLINE, plate 5, fig. 2.
